The Italian States.

The Italian provinces, the right to govern which is claimed by Austria, are VE-NICE, the capital of which is the city of that name, and LOMBARDY, of which MI-LAN is the capital. Both were overrup by the French army under NAPOLEON, in the celebrated Italian campaign of 1796, and continued subject to the French goverament until the occupation was withdrawn by the treaty of Paris of May 30, 1814, on the abdication of the Emperor, when a guardianship over them was assumed by Austria. At this time, both Venice and Lombardy were in a most deplorable condition. Of Venice, it is said that nearly one-half the population was in want of charitable assistance. The misery was frightful.

The exertions of the Austrian government from 1814 to 1848, greatly reduced the distresses of the people. The rule at that time, appears to have been both wise and parental. Pecuniary assistance from the treasury of the kingdom, a better administration of the revenues, a diminution of local taxation, the opening of the ports, and the establishment of important public works, in a great measure restored the country to a state of prosperity.

In 1848 the people of these provinces revolted against Austria, and offered to become subjects of CHARLES ALBERT, King of Sardinia, who was then engaged in a contest with that kingdom, and an unsuccessful attempt was made to expel the Austrians altogether from Italy. In 1849-CHARLES ALBERT having been defeated and dethroned, and his son successor. VICTOR EMMANUEL having made peace with Austria-the other States attempted to erect themselves into independent republics, but were overcome and subdued, after a short resistance, and again reduced under Austrian sovereignty, with some reduction of privileges which they had previously enjoyed.

By the treaty of 1848, between Austris and the Sardinian and Lombardo-Venetian States, the former was permitted to keep sufficient garrisons in her Italian possessions to preserve the peace of the country unbroken. Under this permission it is claimed that she has been gradually increasing her force and extending her occupation, until all Italy-Sardinia only excepted-may be said to be in her power. Under the treaty, right to garrison the city of Placenza, on the frontiers of Piedmont, she is charged with having erected a vast system of fortifications that can have no other object than to threaten Sardinia.

The excuse for its policy on the part of Austria is that of necessity-to preserve the peace of countries inhabited by a turbulent people, forever on the eve of an insurrection. Upon the other side, is the idea, now universally prevalent, that every people is, by nature, invested with the right to prescribe their own form of government, and administer it for themselves. And it is between these different views that lie the real merits of a controversy which, at this time, seems verging to most unsatisfactory of all trials, an appeal to arms.

Marriage and Divorce.

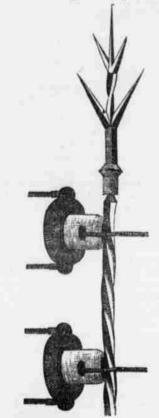

Messrs. HENRY JAMES, HORACE GREELY and JAMES REDPATH, are holding a sort of triangular controversy, very voluminous in its character, upon the subject of marriage and divorce, in the columns of the New York Tribune. The question seems to be: Granted that the object of marriage is to secure the happiness of the parties, what is to be done in cases where it not only fails of this end, but makes them miserable? Mr. JAMES is in favor of divorce; Mr. GREELY believes it best to hold them to it; and Mr. REDPATH occupies a sort of mixed position.

Mr. GREELY, who, without a large endowment of the rational faculty, became a free thinker in early life, has now-as is not very uncommon with men of his class-subsided into a state of rigid orthodoxy, and quotes "Scripture" like a divine; Mr. James quotes from the philosophers, who, taken as a whole, have no superabundance of respect for Bible authority; and Mr. REDPATH, who has been making observations among the free-love African dames of Hayti, tells his experi-

One would think that if the question were submitted to the plain arbitrament no great difficulty in arriving at a sound patented.

and safe decision. There are women in this world whose husbands have broken and daily break every express and implied obligation of themarriage contract, and whose lives are as miserable as if instead of being bound to a loathsome, living, they were tied to a dead body; and yet who, with all their million wrongs that cry to heaven, can gain no remission of their tortures at the hands of human laws and tribunals. And now, in what respect is society made better by interposing its arbitrary rule to keep up this detestable connection? We piously roll up the whites of our eyes, and mourn over the darkness of the poor heathen wives, who, in compliance with a custom of society, burn themselves upon the funeral pile of their dead husbands, and talk of sending them the Gospel that we have in such plentiful quantities, to teach them better; but we have no Gospel for those thousands in our midst - the victims of equally-senseless social prejudices - to whom a bonfire with a dead husband would be far preferable to a couch with their living one. Had we not better reserve our pity for people nearer home?

HOME INTERESTS. Protection Against Lightning.

The phenomena of atmospheric electricity as ever been a subject of careful study by scientists, but if we except the remarkable discoveries of FRANKLIN, no one, perhaps, is entitled to greater praise for the development of practical benefits to the public, arising from a cientific examination of the laws of electrical affinity than is Mr. E. M. Mayo, of this city. The presence of electricity, although necessary to the maintenance of a healthful and salubrious atmosphere; yet its violence, when its equilibrium is disturbed by storms, is of such a nature as to render it dangerous to person and property, and means of protection against this natural enemy, are everywhere important and necessary.

The engraving represents a section of lightning-rod, with its upper extremity, and the insulating attachments recently invented by Mr. Mayo, who has a factory at 245 and 247 Sacamore street. The five points are formed of copper and covered with a coating of pure gold, so that they will not tarnish nor lose their brightness. The insulators are of glass, and are formed with a shoulder at one end, against which is placed an iron collar, the latter being screwed to the building. In the front end of the insulator is a virtical groove for receiving the twisted rod, which is secured in its place by means of a copper wire passing through a hole in the insulator, as shown in the engraving. This form of insulation renders the rod firm and secure, and admits of their being attached and detached without taking it down. These improved insulations have been placed upon the State House, at Columbus, the Lunatic Asylum at Carthage, and on other important buildings in different portions of the State. This invention seems to be the Ne Plus Ultra of improvementin the lightning-rod line, and as a means of protection against lightning, cannot be overestimated. Better have a lightning-rod than an insurance policy.

Electro-Therapeutic Baths. - Upon invitation, we visited yesterday the Electric Infirmary of Dr. KARSHNER, 218 Barr street. where we examined his electro bathing apparatus, and had the pleasure of a practical lesson as to his method of applying it. The apparatus consists of two metallic bathing tub insulated upon the floor, each of which is provided with gutta-percha bands upon which the body rests while in the bath. These bathing tubs are connected with a galvanic battery in the manner hereafter described. The first bath is called the positive, and the tub having been filled with water at about one hundred degrees F., the patient is immersed therein and receives the electricity by means of a wire terminating with a sponge, which the person can hold in his hand.

By this means the electricity enters at one point, is diffused through the system, and passes out at the entire surface immersed. We found that upon immersing the sponge, and bringing it in contact with the body, th electricity would leap from the sponge through the water to the body, thus showing that the latter is a greater conductor of electricity than the water -- a controverted point. we believe, with the profession. A bath in the positive tub, of about twenty minutes duration, is followed by a second and negative bath, in which the electricity enters the system from the entire surface immersed, and passes downward and outward at the feet, producing a tonic and invigorating effect, which not only counteracts the depleting effects of the Positive Bath, but infuses a new life and vigor into the entire man. Our space forbids our giving a detailed account of Dr. Karshner's invention, but a full description may be had by calling at his estab-Hahment, as above, or by addressing him for of simple common sense, there would be a circular. The invention has recently been

"THE BEAUTIFUL" IN MARBLE, One of our attaches gave a description in yesterday's Press of as fine a subject as we have seen for many a day. We would title it "The Angel Boy." No father or mother no son or daughtershould fail to visit Mr. Bolle's studio on Vine street, to see and study this "Sleeping Angel Boy." By request of a lady friend we reproduce the description referred to above :

In one corner we capied a little cherub of a boy, who apparently had wandered among the blooming roses, till he had become weary; he had plucked a boquet of choice flowers, and grasping the same in his little hand, had gone to sleep upon a bed of wild violets. There is a pleasing carelessness exhibited in the figure which is characteristic of one of his age, and we see one shoe off and lying upon the ground, as if by accident; the little hat has fallen upon his mossy pillow, and such is the perfection of the picture that in gazing upon this symbol of innocence one can hardly believe that those plump cheeks and pouting lips are inanimate.

FIGHT OVER A DEAD BODY .- A woman, named Tierney, was arrested and lodged in the Ninth street Station-house, yesterday afternoon, for having been engaged, with two of three others of her sex, in beating a man whose wife lay dead in the room. It sppears that some articles of clothing which had belonged to the deceased woman, the husband, after her death, had locked up, and because he would not allow the sister of his wife, and the woman we have mentioned, to ransack his house at will, they fell upon and beat him, he said, unmercifully. The only sober person in the party was the bereaved husband, who seemed to have suffered much from other causes than those we have named.

Mysterious Suicipe .- On Thursday afterseen, a man was observed to go to the river bank near the foot of Fifth street, and after divesting himself of clothing, he placed them in a sack with stones, and threw them into the river. He then plunged into the water himself, and before he could be resued, disappeared beneath the surface. Efforts were made, yesterday, to recover the body, but without success. The sack was fished up, however, and found to contain good clothing, and several books in the Dutch language. On the wristbands of one of the shirts was the name of "Christian Bugel," which was doubtless that of the unfortunate

CITY COUNCIL .- An adjourned meeting of the City Council was held last evening. The Clerk read a report from the Committee on Common Schools in favor of the city loaning to the School Board $100,000, for building purposes, together with an ordinance to the same effect. The entire evening was occupied in discussing the ordinance, when it went to its engrossment and Council adjourned.

In consequence of the failure of the City Council to pass the ordinance making provision for immediate pressing demand for new school-houses, it is expected that a special meeting of Council will be called for this (Saturday) evening, as the School Board must, by law, certify their annual levy on Monday next.

JACOB TRIER went into a coffee-house on Front street, on yesterday, and after sending the bar-keeper out for something, took the oney drawer, which contained fifteen or sixteen dollars in change, and would have decamped, but the seller of bad liquor returned in time to prevent the loss of his money and have the thief arrested.

WHILE a couple of boys who are engaged in Longley & Bros. printing establishment, on Vine street, were playing yesterday, one of them was severely cut in the abdomen by knife in the hand of the other. The wound, although very painful, it is thought is not dangerous.

AT a meeting of the American Association, last evening, a resolution was passed that they would neither as citizens or otherwise take any part whatever in the Republican State Convention; to be held in Columbus part June

A MAN named Alexander Lyons was yes terday arrested and lodged in the Ninthstreet station house, upon a charge of stabbing with intent to maim a boy named Charles Ange.

No. 30 WEST FOURTH STREET.

The following letter is from one of our well known merchants. Whatever he indorses must be of sterling value. It is well worth reading:

Cincinnati, February 13, 1859.

About a month ago I called at Dr. Ayer s "Throat and Lung Institute," 30 West Fourth street, for treatment for Tonsilitis and Chronic Inflammation of the Throat. The tonsils and uvula (or palate) were so much enlarged that there seemed to be but one course to pursue, and that was to cut them off; this I had been told by other physicians, who had also candidly told me they could not cure me. Dr. Ayer made a careful examination and pronounced excision unnecessary, and prescribed Medicated Inhalstion and topical applications, with general treatment, and the result is a prespect returner! The inflammation habeen allayed, and the tonsils and palate reduced it their natural size and position. I now have no someoness or difficulty whatever of the throat, and Treatment and the reduced it is a prespect for the condition. I now have no someoness or difficulty whatever of the throat, and treatments in mode of treatments rational, pleasant, and certainly in my case successful, and I have every reason to believe the Doctor is equally successful in all other cases while I have been under treatment at the Institute.
